

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for distinguishing bacterial from non-bacterial exacerbations of chronic lung disease. The method comprises detecting 5 the presence of elastase in patient sputum containing secretions of the lower respiratory tract.

10 BFLDOCS:500269_1 (762601)

09703503.020901